

De-Population: Vaccines

No Flesh Saved Alive

It's no coincidence that there are so many TV shows and movies whose central theme is that of dramatic depopulation, TV shows like Discovery Channel's The Colony and BBC's Survivors, along with films like I Am Legend, 28 Days Later and the most recent The Walking Dead, to name just a few. They all imagine scenarios where the world's population has been reduced by over 90%. That means about six billion people die in those scenarios.

The elites have been expressing their desire for population reduction of 90% for many years. There is plenty of proof of it in their own words, as well as articles and researchers who have found the facts on it. And now, with more and more couples discovering that they are sterile, perhaps in the next couple of decades the elite will get their dream, or perhaps sooner if they release their deadly bioweapons. Thankfully, God will not let man under Satan's influence completely accomplish such a perverse evil. We know from certain prophecies that it is more like 1/3 that is left in this nation and not just 10% of mankind, but that is another story altogether.

H.G. Wells, in his book The Open Conspiracy wrote in 1935, "The world community of our desires, the organized world community conducting and ensuring its own progress, requires a deliberate collective control of population as a primary condition." One thing to remember: The elite believe that they are a different species from the rest of us, and this is why they only breed within certain bloodlines, and for many years now they have been collecting DNA of every person, especially here in the United States. But it is a movement that has gone worldwide, right from birth with that first heel prick and blood sample. Then their scientists can go to work, developing their bioweapons, targeted at only those with specific DNA coding. Couple that with the binary bioweapons, or time-release bioweapons, and you will understand why many of the films show huge populations dying almost instantly.

Just a few years ago, this would be beyond belief and just be shrugged off as a conspiracy theory. But because of the facts that are there, and because of the research that has been done and exposed. It is no longer theory; it is conspiracy fact.

If you are not wondering why fluoride—a known poison that can also have devastating effects on fertility—and GM foods have been forced on the public, then you may never break free of the cultural programming taking place. Now, it is likely the bioweapons are primed and ready for action; all they need to do is introduce them to an unsuspecting public. What better way to scare or force everyone into taking vaccines than with some bogus pandemic? The CDC asked for a budget increase just a year or so ago of a $1 billion. They are supposed to be tracking disease, but when the swine flu came out, they claimed that, "Oh, it just got too large for us to track." So, they stopped tracking it. And they have just produced a film that's supposed to be used to scare everyone into getting vaccines, showing that if you do not get vaccines, many people, if not most of the population, will die. That's something that CDC (Center for Disease Control) is producing. Why would they do that?

Have you noticed how many drug store chains are advertising flu shots, and often they are offered for free? Even WalMart has gotten on the bandwagon. Fertility has been declining rapidly since the 1950s in all countries of the world, and the start of the change coincided with the introduction of the first mass vaccination programs. For instance, in the UK in 1947, a mass DPT vaccine campaign was initiated, and in 1958 the first polio and diphtheria vaccines were brought in on a mass scale for all people under 15 years old.

Vaccines contain many ingredients that are potentially damaging to fertility, including detergents like Triton X100, also known as octoxynol-10, which is a known spermicide and has been used in experiments to strip sperm so that they are no longer capable of fertilizing an egg. In a 1997 study in The Journal of Reproduction and Fertility, Triton X100 was listed in a table of the most potent spermicides that would produce 100% stripping of human sperm, and the dosages needed for such an effect. Triton X100 is contained in vaccines.

The data sheet for fluarix vaccine (an influenza virus vaccine) says on its labeling that it does not contain thimerosal, which is that mercury compound that everybody is against (or hopefully most people are). But then it says, "Each dose also contains Triton X100 and polysorbate 80."

What do Triton X100 and polysorbate 80 have in common? They both cause infertility, and they are both in many vaccines. Interestingly enough, polysorbate 80 is also an emulsifier used in popular brands of ice cream.

According to the World Intellectual Property Organization, which is part of the United Nations, scientists from the organization are developing vaccines specifically to restrain fertility as a method of contraception. A suggested ingredient for the vaccine is polysorbate 80, as it is a preferred ingredient. Scientists are obviously aware of its ability to cause infertility.

The Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting system (this is an official reporting system) lists 25 pages of incidents of teenage girls and women who had miscarriages after being injected with Gardasil when pregnant, and that is just for one type of vaccine.

In 2010 CNN and other media outlets reported that the U.S. birth rate fell for the second year in a row. The number of babies born in the United States dropped 2.6% that year, according to a recent study, the latest in a long list of falling indicators. The birth rate, which takes into account changes in the population, fell to 13.5 births for every 1000 people last year, down from 13.9 births in 2008, down from 14.3 births in 2007, according to a report from the National Center for Health Statistics. The reported cause? An expert says it is due to the recession. So, the official story being the recession means that we shouldn't worry about the GM foods, the fluoride in the water, and the laced vaccines that are rapidly sterilizing us. When you look at the numbers, 2.6 is not that big of a drop. But when you look at 2007 data, the drop is 5.5% in just two years. When you look at today versus 1990, the drop is a staggering 19%. That's how much this nation's fertility rate has gone down. That is not an accident.

According to P. D. Griffin's book, Research in Human Reproduction, chapter 11, page 177, under the title "Vaccines for Fertility Regulation" (and this man is a researcher and writer who records the latest developments in the medical and human reproduction area for the government and the World Health Organization; he has written several books on the subject with hundreds of scientists and religious leaders and universities involved in his research. I looked at the list, which he listed in this book, and it shows, Presbyterian leaders, Catholic leaders, university leaders, health center leaders, government officials, and quite a few officials from the Republic of China):

The research objectives of the task force on Vaccines for Fertility Regulation are to develop vaccines that will safely and effectively inhibit fertilization, and vaccines that will safely and effectively disrupt implantation. . . The results obtained in this trial have shown that the _____ vaccine can elicit the production of antibodies to HCG ,and that the level of these antibodies appears to be high enough to confer an anti-fertility effect in fertile women.

This is another example of using their own documents to prove just what the elite are planning.

In a NaturalNews.com article titled, "Coming Soon: GMO Vaccines Contained in Our Food," Paul Fassa writes:

Over the past two years, there is been research on unleashing vaccines through foods and even insects. These developments are touted as options for mass vaccination programs without needles. They also have the potential for sneaking vaccines into our bodies without our consent. GMO foods are successfully avoiding being labeled as such in America. And what about GMO food vaccines? Now in Australia, another sneaky vaccine method is being developed for our consumption. An Australian biotech team is working on a way to implant vaccinating bugs into our stomach. They think it's great because certain foods like yogurt can carry those bugs into our stomachs, allowing for months of auto vaccinations from within. . . . Soon, those ignorant of vaccination dangers will be able to feed their babies vaccine yogurts instead of taking them to their friendly vaccine-jabbing pediatricians. Even worse, if those GMO vaccine foods are not labelled, we would all have an even harder time avoiding vaccinations.

Vaccinations have been used as carriers for infertility compounds, and these vaccinations and GMO foods are often shipped out as foreign aid to developing or under developed nations for the specific purpose of birth control without consent.

This is not a conspiracy theory. In the mid-1990s, different agencies had attempted mass "humanitarian" inoculations with tetanus and polio vaccines to women in Mexico, the Philippines, and Nigeria. The vaccines were inserted with a compound that blocks pregnancy. This was revealed from lab tests to confirm suspicions regarding inappropriate free vaccination campaigns.

It's been a couple of years or so since a famous philanthropist granted $100,000 to a Japanese team of scientists intent on breeding mosquitoes capable of administering vaccinations. This "philanthropist" once publicly stated how vaccinations could help reduce the world population by 15%, and now he's promoting worldwide vaccinations for all children.

He also has a half million shares in the largest GMO firm worth over $23 million. Combining GMO corn's ability to reduce sterility with vaccines looks like another depopulation strategy. Other biotech scientists have experimented with different GMO methods for creating vaccine edibles.

A research team, working on edible vaccines, boasted how there would be no need for expensive vaccine purification with the GMO modified vaccine edibles. Corn and bananas were researched for these vaccine edibles.

. . . and now they have a GMO corn that does definitely carry an infertility gene in the form of a vaccination.

Satan and the elite are definitely planning for, practicing for, and now carrying out their plans to depopulate the Earth in defiance of God's salvation. I have much more to say on this, but that will have to suffice for today.
